

Attend the national event that gathers organics collectors, compost producers and advocates, compostable products manufacturers and compost users in one place: COMPOST2019!

The US Composting Council's 27th National Conference brings all the players, including those who provide the services, equipment and products that make the circular COMPOST economy work.

Whether you are producing small-scale or commercial scale compost, collecting organics or organizing programs as an institutional food waste generator, college or municipal solid waste, recycling, or sustainability program representative, or are a state or local regulator of compost facilities or compost use, a product innovator for compost or compostable items, you'll find what you need here!

Come to the Glendale Renaissance in beautiful Arizona, a wonderful place to be in January (28-31, 2019).

Register at www.compostconference.com